Dear President Trump, Chair Ernst, Ranking Member Markey, Chairman Williams, and Ranking Member Velázquez,

Many unnecessary regulatory burdens on small businesses are the result of Biden Administration actions that were contrary to the letter and spirit of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA). President Biden failed to nominate a Chief Counsel for the Office of Advocacy at the SBA. His agencies also failed to provide rulemaking information requested by Congress.¹

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires federal agencies to analyze how new rules affect small entities; the Chief Counsel serves as its watchdog. Its goal is to prevent small entities from being excessively burdened by regulations designed for large entities.

Scope of this Report

The Chief Counsel may from time to time prepare and publish such reports as he deems appropriate.² The purpose of this report is to provide information that the House Committee on Small Business requested, but did not receive, during its investigation of RFA compliance by regulatory agencies. This information significantly overlaps with information requested by President Trump’s Executive Order 14219 regarding “regulations that are based on anything other than the best reading of the underlying statutory authority...” and “regulations that impose undue burdens on small business....”

I understand from the House committee’s May 2024 report “Regulatory Flexibility Act Report: Agencies’ Noncompliance with the RFA” that the committee would like “the name, docket number, and citation of all rules, proposed and final, that [federal agencies] certified as having no significant impact on a substantial number of small entities from 2020 to February 2023.” Such information is crucial for assessing and improving compliance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act and ultimately reducing regulatory burdens on America’s small businesses. This report provides essentially the citations that the committee requested from the agencies, but for the period January 20, 2021 through January 19, 2025 and limited to final rules.

Methodology

The analysis begins with all Biden Administration final rules available from FederalRegister.gov, which is a public-facing website. Each rule with a RFA section, or at least a sentence pertaining to the RFA, was examined and classified using artificial-intelligence (AI) methods that are explained more fully in Appendix A.³ Among other things, the classification identified rules in which the author asserted no significant economic impact of the rule on a substantial number of small entities, otherwise known as “certifying” the rule under 5 USC 605(b). The certified rules are listed in Appendix B of this report, organized by agency and selected categories of the Code of Federal Regulations.

¹ Page 9 of the May 2024 report “Regulatory Flexibility Act Report: Agencies’ Noncompliance with the RFA” from the House Committee on Small Business.

The AI classifier also identified rules that claimed to be exempt from RFA requirements. Those rules are listed in Appendix C of this report, following the same presentation structure as Appendix B. A detailed table of comments shows where to find an agency in each appendix and the number of rules it has listed.

Key Findings

- More than 6,000 final rules promulgated in the Federal Register by the Biden administration were certified under 5 USC 605(b). In common parlance, each is a case in which an agency asserted that its rule would not have a meaningful effect on small businesses.
 - Some were properly certified;
 - Others lacked the factual basis required by 5 USC 605(b); and
 - Others were certified without permitting the Office of Advocacy to review the certification, also required by 5 USC 605(b).
- More than 2,000 rules claimed exemption from RFA requirements.
- Thousands more rules were promulgated without mentioning the RFA, but are not listed in this report.

Next Steps

The volume of certifications is troubling, and their content even more so. As part of my review, I identified hundreds of billions of dollars of costs imposed on millions of small entities by just three rules asserting that they would “not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.”⁴ A future report from my office will thoroughly document agency abuses of 5 USC 605(b) certification.

³ Office of Management and Budget Memorandum M-25-21 directs agencies to “lean forward on adopting effective, mission-enabling AI...”

I look forward to working with President Trump's new cabinet and the Congressional committees to fully realize, on behalf of America's small businesses and a policy agenda that promotes prosperity, the aspirations of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Sincerely,

Notes: Joint rules are listed under all participating agencies. A few rules are listed in both Appendix B (certified) and Appendix C (exemption asserted).

Identification and Classification of Biden Administration Rules

These processing steps were followed:

- (1) Search FederalRegister.gov by publication date for records with type coded as “RULE” and save the metadata for each record.
- (2) In order to avoid double-counting, eliminate records with “; correction”, “;correction”, “; technical correction”, “;technical correction”, or “: technical correction” in the title, which indicate a repeated (and corrected) record for a rule on FederalRegister.gov. Records indicating compliance guide or summary rule presentation in the action field were also eliminated.
- (3) For each rule, extract the text of “Regulatory Flexibility Act” section of the rule. If there is no such section, search the text of the rule for paragraphs mentioning the Regulatory Flexibility Act. If the agency hosted its Regulatory Flexibility analysis in another docket document, obtain that document and extract the relevant text accordingly.
- (4) The RFA text by itself was presented to a Large Language Model (LLM) to determine whether it was certifying that the rule did not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. If so, the LLM was directed to determine whether a factual basis was provided for the certification.⁵ The full LLM question-and-answer tree is attached as Appendix A, which indicates those queries that request True/False answers. The rules that were “certified” (using the Appendix A definition) are listed in Appendix B. Joint rules are listed multiple times, once for each participating agency.⁶
- (5) As an economist and advocate for small businesses, I am keen to understand whether an agency made its decisions under the presumption of no significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, even if its Federal Register language does not precisely match 5 USC 605(b). Appendix B is also marked to allow readers of this report to consider alternative definitions of “certify.” Specifically, the RFA text of each certified rule was presented to an LLM to determine whether the agency consulted a Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis. Affirmative answers to this query are marked in Appendix B.
- (6) The RFA text by itself was presented to the LLM to determine whether the authors of the rule were claiming an exemption from RFA requirements. Those rules are listed in Appendix C.

⁵ The LLM was provided with a definition of factual basis: “A factual basis would contain a description of the number of affected entities and the size of the economic impacts. Alternatively, the factual basis would point out that the proposed rule is not imposing any new compliance burdens.” Unless indicated otherwise, the LLM used was OpenAI’s GPT-4o API with temperature set to 0.2, which is a value suited for low-creativity precision requests.

⁶ Joint rules were not double counted in the rule counts cited on the first page of this report.

Appendix A. The LLM Question-Answer Tree

Each rule with RFA text, numbering more than 8,000, was its own LLM “chat.” Each chat was initialized with “Attached is a passage from a federal rule. I will ask follow-up questions about it. Until then, no need to summarize it.” followed by the rule’s RFA text. The chat then traversed Figure 1’s question-answer tree, which is illustrated on the following page of this appendix. In other words, the questions posed depended on the previous answers provided by the LLM. The tree was traversed using the Wolfram Language’s tree utilities.

Figure 1’s root question confirms that the RFA is in fact the subject of the RFA text. A rule is listed in Appendix B if and only if: (1) it is not a correction rule or compliance guide, (2) it has RFA text, and (3) the tree’s second question is answered affirmatively.⁷

Each rule with RFA text could have up to five queries, including the initialization. In addition, each rule with RFA text, regardless of certification, was queried as to whether an RFA exemption is claimed. Rules listed in Appendix B were also queried as to whether a Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis (FRFA) was consulted.

Readers of the PDF version of Appendix B can easily confirm the LLM’s certification conclusion because the Federal Register citation is hyperlinked to the FederalRegister.gov copy of the rule. In almost all cases, the hyperlink jumps to the exact paragraph where language similar to 605(b) is used.

Pursuant to the 2018 OPEN Government Data Act and OMB Memorandum M-25-21, the rule-by-rule RFA text and LLM conclusions will be published as a Small Business Administration (SBA) Data Asset.

⁷ To assess and enhance accuracy, the question about certification was asked again using a second LLM: OpenAI’s GPT-4.1 model. For the GPT-4.1 chats, the certification question was followed by a request to assess confidence in the answer as “low,” “medium,” or “high.” This was done separately from the queries shown in Figure 1, which were processed with GPT-4o. I manually reviewed RFA text for rules having low-confidence GPT-4.1 answers, or answers that disagreed between GPT-4o and GPT-4.1. The two models agreed regarding 99 percent of the rules. For the remaining one percent, GPT-4o proved to be more accurate for the task. See also Yao et al., “Tree of Thoughts: Deliberate Problem Solving with Large Language Models,” arXiv:2305.10601v2.

Appendix B. Rules certified as having no significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, by agency or CFR category.

Certified rules are sorted by alphabetically by agency, except for subagencies or CFR categories that are particularly numerous. In those cases, the prolific subagencies, or rule categories, are listed first followed by pages for rules promulgated by the “rest of” the parent agency. For example, Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS) rules are listed on the pages before the rest of Health and Human Services rules. Another example: Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans (rules editing 40 CFR 52) are listed on the pages before the rest of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) rules. The full list of subagencies and categories is:

- USDA/Agriculture Marketing Service (AMS),
- Commerce/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration’s (NOAA),
- EPA/Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans (40 CFR 52)
- HHS/CMS,
- DHS/USCG Water Safety rules (33 CFR 100),
- DHS/USCG Drawbridge rules (33 CFR 117),
- DHS/USCG Safety Zones rules (33 CFR 165),
- Interior/Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) rules,
- DOT/FAA Airworthiness rules (14 CFR 25 or 14 CFR 39),
- DOT/FAA Airspace rules (14 CFR 71),
- DOT/FAA Standard Instrument Procedures (14 CFR 97)
- Treasury/IRS

Within agency (or subagency or CFR category as described above), all certified rules, identified as described in Appendix A, are listed in order by citation. Any rule promulgated by multiple agencies is listed on each agency’s section of this appendix, even though the rule is counted only once in the statistics reported in the introduction to this report.

In the PDF version of this appendix, each Federal Register citation links to the rule text as hosted by FederalRegister.gov. In almost all cases, the hyperlink jumps to the exact paragraph where the author asserts that the rule will not have an economically significant impact on a substantial number of small entities (SISNOSE).⁸ Some of the listed rules also claim exemption from the RFA, but nonetheless state no SISNOSE.

Within parent agency, I ranked rules according to page views on FederalRegister.gov.⁹ For those certified rules, if any, that make the top quarter of page views, the title is followed by “[TOP

⁸ Some of the links may not work as intended due to flaws in the structure of the rule’s HTML presentation by FederalRegister.gov. These flaws are unrelated to the process for identifying rules as being certified.

⁹ For example, each IRS-rule view count is compared to the distribution of page views among all Department of Treasury rules.

VIEWED]”.¹⁰ If the rule indicated that its determination of no SISNOSE was made in consultation with a Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis (FRFA), the Federal Register citation is followed by “*”.

In summary, the Appendix adds emphasis to indicate:

- Top-viewed rules (title)
- FRFA consultation (Federal Register citation)

Appendix C. Rules asserting RFA exemption, by agency or CFR category

Rules are sorted alphabetically by agency or CFR category in the same sequence as in Appendix B. Seven agencies appear in this appendix but not in Appendix B because each promulgated at least one final rule asserting exemption from the Regulatory Flexibility Act, but zero rules claiming no significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (SISNOSE).

Any RFA-exempt rule promulgated by multiple parent agencies is repeated in this appendix once for each agency. Rules that claim exemption from the RFA, but nonetheless state no SISNOSE, appear in both appendices.

In the PDF version of this appendix, each Federal Register citation links to the rule text as hosted by FederalRegister.gov. In many cases, the hyperlink jumps to the exact paragraph where the author asserts that the rule is exempt from the RFA.¹

As with Appendix B, I ranked rules according to page views on FederalRegister.gov, within parent agency.² For those exempt rules, if any, that make the top quarter of page views, the title is followed by “[TOP VIEWED]”. The top-viewed calculation is not performed for any parent agency with fewer than 25 final rules promulgated during the Biden Administration.

¹ Some of the links may not work as intended due to flaws in the structure of the rule’s HTML presentation by FederalRegister.gov. These flaws are unrelated to the process for identifying rules as being certified or asserting exemption.

² For example, each IRS-rule view count is compared to the distribution of page views among all Department of Treasury rules.
